AMEGY VOLUNTEERS GIVE BACK TO LOCAL COMMUNITY THROUGH UNITED WAY'S VIRTUAL DAY OF ACTION

HOUSTON (Aug. 18, 2020) — The COVID-19 pandemic has increased food insecurity and financial difficulties for many families in our community. More than 50 Amegy Bank and Zions Bancorporation colleagues in Houston, and their families and friends, joined the United Way of Greater Houston and participated in remote volunteer projects to serve families in need.

Volunteer projects included disaster response, basic needs and summer learning. Once the remote volunteer projects were completed, Amegy employees delivered the items to various United Way agencies in their community.

“With the ongoing challenges of returning to school and social distancing, many families and children are feeling the burden of being isolated and struggling to staying engaged, ” said Amegy Bank Financial Education Program Administrator Polly Alam. “I felt compelled to help children in our community through this difficult time.”

Polly collected 225 books from friends and neighbors for the children of Star of Hope, as part of her participation in United Way of Greater Houston’s Virtual Day of Action.

Amegy Bank Financial Education Program Administrator Polly Alam shared her love for reading and donated children's books to Star of Hope through her participation in United Way of Greater Houston's Virtual Day of Action.
